What is a Rights Respecting School?

At our school we teach children about Children's Rights. These come from the United Nations Convention on the Rights of the Child UNCRC.

We currently hold Unicef's Rights Respecting Award (RRSA) Level 2- the highest level achievable.

The whole school has a Rights Respecting ethos and children are taught about Rights and how to respect the rights of others.

As a result of our work we have increased levels of respectful behaviours in school.

Ofsted stated " Pupils' personal development is good and the contribution they make to the school and wider community is outstanding. They grow and develop into very caring individuals with a strong sense of social responsibility." Ofsted October 2011

Pupil questionnaires also reflect how children are aware of improved behaviour as a result of Classroom charters and work done for the RRSA.

This is what our pupils say!!!!

"It has made a lot of difference because they have made people get along, plus nobody is alone any more, behaviour is lots better too. We know not to leave people out any more." KS2 pupil

"Unicef made a difference to our school because it made us think about different people in different countries." KS2 pupil

"People respect each other now. I know what my rights are. I know how I should be treated and how I have to treat others." KS2 pupil.
